

FRANKLIN COUNTY

What is your vision for code enforcement?

Please join us to inform county-level discussions on code enforcement.

The presentations will not differ across communities. ARPC staff will share best practices for code enforcement in similar communities and solicit public input on community concerns and ideas for how code enforcement could look in Franklin County.

All events are open to the public.

More than one County Commissioner may be in attendance.

Please contact Adriana Silva at the Apalachee Regional Planning Council with any questions:

What is the Apalachee Regional Planning Council?

The ARPC is an intergovernmental, not-for-profit regional organization that works on behalf of its 9-county region, including Franklin County, to provide technical assistance in the areas of economic development, emergency preparedness, transportation, housing, quality of life, and growth management, which encompasses the topic of code enforcement.

ARPC staff seek to assist Franklin County as a neutral third party to understand and document community perspectives on code enforcement.
